Allen Landholders.

Notwithstanding the fact that the ownership of land by aliens and foreign syndicates has been freely discussed by the newspapers, and some few of the Western States have taken legislative action against the spread of the evil, it is very doubtful if the people of this country, as a rule, have any definite idea of the extent to which the public domain has been seized upon within the past twenty years by men who had no idea of becoming American citizens. The following figures, although incomplete, are suggestive of the recklessness with which the Government lands were disposed of to any one who chose to improve the opportunity. The land, having once gone out of the hands of the Government, is almost invariably shut out from the uses of the independent settler, whose progress westward from the Atlantic has been contemporaneous and co-extensive with the country's development: The largest tract, 4,500,000 acres, is held by the Holland Company of New Mexico. An English syndicate holds 3,000,000 acres in Texas; Sir Edward Reed and a syndicate in Florida owns 2,000,000 acres; 1,800,000 acres belong to an English syndicate in Mississippi; 1,750,000 belong to the Marquis of Tweeddale; 1,300,000 acres to the Phillips-MacCallister Company of London, and 1,500,000 acres to a German syndicate. These comprise the larger landholders. There are, however, a score or more of persons and syndicates owning less than 750,000 acres. The grand total foots up 20,747,000 acres of Government land held, by aliens in the United States. As nearly all this land has been carefully selected by agents, it follows that more than 20,000,000 acres of the best portion of the public domain has been permitted to fall into the hands of foreigners whose ideas of the relations of landlord and tenant are based upon the aristocratic traditions of the Old World.

A Transparent Subterfuge.

The Salt Lake Tribune says: General Harrison exactly hit the mark once more in his speech to the commercial men on Saturday last, when he said: "Do not allow any one to persuade you that this great contest as to our tariff policy is one between schedules. It is a question between wide-apart principles." That states the case exactly. If there was any other feasible way to raise the revenue for the wants of the Government all the supporters of the Mills bill would logically stand with Henry George and insist upon the abolishment of the Custom Houses. That is what Mr. Mills, Mr. Waterson and the rest believe in now, and they insist that any tariff for any purpose, except raising revenue for running the Government on the most economical basis, is robbery. The insistence, then, that the Mills bill is not in the direct line of free trade is merely a transparent subterfuge.

The Secretary of the Interior has issued an order directing that from September 1st next Indian agents will be permitted to nominate their own clerks and other subordinates, subject to the approval of the Secretary. This supersedes and revokes the policy introduced at the beginning of the present Administration.

Since Henry George has declared for Free Trade the workingmen have almost deserted him. When he ran for Mayor of New York he had the support of 68,000 workingmen.

APPALLING!

THE GREAT MARINE DISASTER—YESTERDAY.

How the Collision Occurred—The Scene of Death and Terror Described—Details of the Shocking Disaster.

Special dispatch to the GAZETTE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—The dense fog which hung over the coast, and particularly the Golden Gate yesterday morning, caused a sad marine disaster off Alcatraz Island. Shortly after 10 o'clock news was received by telephone from the Presidio that two large ocean steamers had collided. The first account was that both were seriously disabled and that there had been great loss of life. The steamers were the City of Chester, outward bound for Eureka, Humboldt Bay, with a full cargo and numerous passengers, and the Oceanic, the great four-masted steamer of the Occidental & Oriental line, inward bound from China and Japan. The news spread like wildfire in down-town business circles and along the water front, and there was great excitement among those who had friends or acquaintances on board both steamers or who had valuable freight thereon. As soon as the news reached the offices of the steamship companies and the principal wharves several small steamers and tugboats were dispatched to the scene of the disaster. Owing to the thick fog no more details were received than the foregoing up to 12 o'clock, and the suspense in the city was fearful. Those who had just bade their friends on the City of Chester good-bye were in agony.

A report was afterward received by telephone that the Oceanic was uninjured, but that the City of Chester had been cut down to the water's edge, and had sunk in deep water, while the Oceanic had come to an anchor a short distance off, and her officers were doing their utmost to save the lives of the unfortunate people on the City of Chester. Then came a report that twenty of the passengers and crew of the City of Chester had been drowned.

THE COLLISION.

The City of Chester left Broadway wharf at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. When opposite Alcatraz Island she collided with the Occidental & Oriental Steamship Company's steamer Oceanic and was sunk. There was a heavy fog on the bay, and Captain Wallace, commanding the City of Chester, was blowing the whistle continuously. He had just cleared the fort, when he heard a whistle, and as it was very close signaled the engineer to stop the vessel. It was too late, however, as the Oceanic was right on him, and before a word could be said his vessel was struck right aft the main hatch. The City of Chester was cut right down to the water's edge, but Captain Wallace ordered the engineer to go ahead and try and keep her afloat till the passengers could be got off. A considerable number were transferred to the Oceanic, but before all could be put aboard, the deck of the City of Chester bulged up and she went down bodily.

After leaving Angel Island the channel is not very wide, and the Oceanic was almost on top of the doomed steamer before she was seen. The engines of both vessels were reversed, but the headway of the Oceanic was too great and the massive iron bow of the great steamer plunged into the Chester, crushing the iron sides of the latter vessel as though they had been eggshells.

As the two vessels came together there were loud cries of alarm from the passengers and crews, and then the black iron prow of the Oceanic cut into the Chester's upper works with the greatest ease, and slowly crushed on down to the bulwarks on the main deck, smashing and severing the great timbers and iron plates of the Chester, crushing through into the state rooms and inner cabins without any apparent checking of her momentum. The scene on the two vessels at this moment was terrible. The passengers on the doomed steamer were crowding fore and aft, some shrieking with fear, some cursing, and others praying to the Almighty for help. The officers of the Chester seemed to have lost their senses, and pandemonium for a few moments reigned supreme. The groaning, crashing sound of bursting iron plates, the smashing of lifeboats and stanchions, mingled with the hoarse orders of excited officers and the yells of passengers and crew, were terrible enough to deprive the ordinary man of presence of mind. This was of short duration, however, for the Oceanic's bow passed on into the mid-section of the Chester, cutting her almost entirely into halves, knocking and smashing her upper works into countless pieces. The Chester reeled under the terrific blow; the passengers on her deck were roughly thrown down by the shock, and then, after giving the Chester her death wound, the Oceanic swung to one side and passed astern of her victim.

THE PASSENGERS PANIC-STRICKEN.

Meanwhile the passengers became panic-stricken, and a wild rush was made for the boats and life-preservers, and it was all that the officers could do to prevent the boats from being let down by the men and swamped. Finally order was restored, and the disembarkation of the passengers was commenced. During all this while, however, the Chester was slowly settling, and the horrible gurgling of the water could be heard in the lower hold, while the surrounding water was fast being littered with wreckage. Many did not wait for the boats, but, placing life-preservers about their waists, jumped overboard and were afterward picked up.

On the Oceanic the Chinese crew seemingly became terror-stricken as soon as the accident occurred, and much time was lost in lowering the boats of the latter steamer. If the crew had been white there would have been more lives saved. Finally the boats of the Oceanic were lowered, and did good work picking up those who were floating in the bay, sustaining themselves on life-preservers and bits of wreckage. Captain Wallace, the Second Mate and John Walker, one of the seamen, did heroic work in rescuing persons who were unable to swim, the second mate jumping from the boat four times and saving a life each time, while Walker rescued three. Among those picked up in this manner was the steward of the Chester. He had a life-preserver on and was alive when rescued, but expired shortly after. Captain Walker was badly bruised about the body and head, but sustained no other injury.

NEVADANS IN PERIL.

The Drowning of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hampton—A Brief Biography of the Former.

Allen A. Curtis, a well-known banker and merchant of Austin and also a stockholder in the First National Bank of Reno, was on board with his wife and two boys; and a few moments before the collision was conversing with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hampton. The San Francisco Bulletin says: "They were all talking together a few moments before the disaster. Both Mr. Curtis and his wife say they saw the Oceanic coming in and apparently crossing the channel. There was no other way for the Chester to turn than the way she did. Said he: 'The Oceanic was coming down at fair speed upon us and crashed right into our bows. I naturally looked out for my family and did not see Mr. Hampton again. He must have been drowned. I saw his wife rescued, but she was about gone then and died soon after. I ran forward to see if I could put people on the Oceanic, but it was then too late to do that. I went to one of the boats which I judged would be lowered first and got aboard with all my people. We pulled out away from the Chester before she sank and were then picked up by the Oceanic's boats. The boat I was in was the only boat lowered from the Chester.'"

THE HAMPTONS.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hampton in Virginia received dispatches yesterday which related that Mrs. Hampton had floated in the bay, and when she was picked up it was found that the unfortunate lady was still alive. Every effort was made to resuscitate her, but after two hours' incessant work the heart ceased to beat, and the life of so noble a lady as ever breathed was yielded up to its Maker. The deceased was 44 years of age, and was born in Newburyport, Massachusetts. Her mother, Mrs. J. J. Dixon, is now in Virginia City, and is well known here, having lived in Reno for many years.

J. C. HAMPTON.

In the death of J. C. Hampton, Nevada loses one of her foremost citizens. He has been identified with the State since 1864, and for the past twenty-four years has been engaged in business in Virginia City, besides being heavily interested in a score of other enterprises in various portions of the State. Going to California in the argonaut days he engaged in business at Folsom, where he prospered until 1864. In that year he arrived in Virginia, and shortly afterwards established himself in the grocery business, the firm name being Moore, Ogden & Co., shortly after being changed to Ogden & Hampton. In 1864 he bought his partner's interest, and organized the firm of J. C. Hampton & Co., and under that title the firm has successfully conducted business ever since. He was also heavily interested in the firms of Curtis, Gage & Co., Austin, and Gage, Shattuck & Co., of San Francisco, besides being a large owner in the Steamboat ditch property in this county. In conjunction with A. A. Curtis, D. A. Bender and J. W. Haines of Genoa he was heavily interested in timber lands in Humboldt county, California, and was on the way to inspect his possessions there when he met his death in the waters of San Francisco bay.

Mr. Hampton, although always a staid man of business, was of a genial temperament, a steadfast friend, and very charitably inclined. He was one of the most prominent Masons on the Coast, being a Past Eminent Commander of the Knights-Templar, and had served two terms as Treasurer of the order. In politics he never bore a conspicuous part but was elected twice Treasurer of Virginia under the old form of city government. He was born in Ohio, and was about 56 years of age. He leaves a fortune estimated at about $1,000,000.

THE CHILDREN SAFE.

At first it was reported that one of the children was also drowned, but it has been ascertained that they are all safe in Virginia City, in charge of Mrs. Dixon, mother of Mrs. Hampton. There are three children, John C., aged 18 years, Grace, aged 18 years, and Ida, aged 7 years, all natives of the Comstock.

Submerged in the Bay.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—The Southern Pacific Railroad Company has been engaged for some time past in building a double track from Port Costa to Oakland, on account of the enormous business done on the line. A large force of men is still employed on the new track. This morning, while running over the new track, a construction train consisting of an engine and four "freight" cars, was suddenly thrown into the bay just below Port Costa, and submerged. The accident was caused by the tide washing out the foundation of the new road. No one was injured.

An Unlucky Heather.

MERCED, Cal., Aug. 22.—Early this morning a Chinaman, employee of the Southern Pacific, while attempting to jump on a freight train slipped and fell, the cars passing over both his legs near the thigh. Though horribly mangled, he still lives, and has been taken charge of by the Chinamen of this town.

POLITICAL POINTS.

"I am in favor of a high protective tariff," said Abraham Lincoln in his first political speech.

Carl Schurz is said to be so disgusted with Cleveland that he will remain in Germany till after the election.

The Mormons, as well as their official organ, the Salt Lake Herald, are all out strong for Cleveland.

Ohio leads all the other States in the number of its 1840 Harrison voters, having a record of 4,000 so far. Iowa has more than 1,400.

Rice is one of the articles of food on which the Mills bill imposes a duty of 100 per cent, because it is produced in the South.

Michigan Republicans have put ex-Governor Alger on the Presidential ticket by making him an elector, and can vote for him after all.

In Great Britain wages have declined eighteen per cent since 1883, and 1,000,000 workmen are idle. Such is the glory of free trade.

J. J. West, the leading proprietor of the Chicago Times, was interviewed in Denver and expressed the opinion that Harrison and Morton would be elected.

The serious work of the canvass will not begin until about the middle of September. But even now the canvass has a serious aspect for the Democrats.

There will be, it is expected, 12,000 new voters in New York this year. Of these 2,500 are naturalized voters. The total vote is likely to be about two hundred and fifty thousand.

They Are All Dead.

A queer old citizen of Salt Lake met a representative of the Tribune recently and the following conversation ensued:

Q. C.—Did not the wires say that Speaker Carlisle was willing to discuss the tariff question with Mr. Blaine?

T. M.—Yes.

Q. C.—Mr. Carlisle is a very brave man, is he not?

T. M.—What makes you ask?

Q. C.—Did not some half dozen gentlemen try that same experiment with Mr. Blaine in the House of Representatives a few years ago?

T. M.—I believe so.

Q. C.—Can you just at this moment recall the names of any of the gentlemen who tried that experiment who are not dead?

An then the Q. C. strode away whistling.

"BANISH THEM ALL."

A Citizen Who Believes in Prompt and Effective Action.
EDITOR GAZETTE:—Your suggestion under the head of "Banish Them All," in yesterday's issue, was most timely. That our town is overrun with the classes named is patent to every observer. There will be an additional trend of these elements in this direction if most decisive steps against them are not promptly taken. Those of our local candidates who are aspirants for re-election, can not present better reasons for favor than by ridding the town of the obnoxious scum of the social world and the social evil that is fast accumulating. If the influx of this immoral element continues without resistance, by the time of the fair the town and visitors will be at the mercy of cheap human vultures, who prey upon the public at large, and all interested will have to bear the stigma of permitting the gross impositions of those who are only fit ornaments for the chain gang and prisons. If the officers fail in ridding the town of the thieves and vagabonds, check guerrillas and pimps, there should be organized a bar-buck brigade at once.

These elements can now do good service on the sewers in the day time, be locked up at night, and at the end of their sentences notified to leave, and not stand on the order of their going. A raid without stint on all suspicious characters would not only rid the town of them, but would stop further accessions.

Don't Experiment.

You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always seems, at first, only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, but be sure you get the genuine. Because he can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good, or just the same. Don't be deceived, but insist upon getting Dr. King's New Discovery, which is guaranteed to give relief in all Throat, Lung and Chest affections. Trial bottles free at Hodgkinson's Drug Store. Large bottles $1.

FRISCO CHAT.

A Budget of News and Personal Mention from the Metropolis.
Special Correspondence GAZETTE.

"We are making preparations for putting that tunnel at Eagle Lake right through," said Cap. Merrill to me the other day. "A lot of solid capitalists are behind the proposition now, and it's bound to go. Nothing can stop it. That Eagle Lake country will be a perfect paradise when we get water on it."

The Captain is right—as he always is. That valley is destined to become one of the finest agricultural regions ever seen. All they need is water. Eagle Lake is able to furnish all they want and more too, if they can only get it out. It is a very large lake and the water in it is increasing every year.

The last time I was there Dan C. Wheeler and I drove around the eastern edge of it on a road which was built on a ledge of solid rock. The road at that time was in many places a foot under water though it was at the dry season of the year.

When the roadway was constructed it was thought to be above high water mark. The western bank of the lake slopes gradually, providing thousands of acres of natural meadow land. A great deal of this meadow land is now submerged by the advancing waters. It is hoped by the owners that the tunnel when it taps the lake will cause it to lower enough to redeem the drowned out meadows. This scarcely seems probable, however, as the lake is so vast and the tunnel so small, comparatively speaking, that it is thought the effect will be imperceptible. At all events it is conceded that the water supply for Cap. Merrill's scheme will be inexhaustible. Ex-Senator Pete Marker was for several years identified with this enterprise, but I understand he has sold out. Lou Folsom owns a valuable ranch in this locality. It is on Willow creek, which comes from Eagle Lake just the same as Fall river comes from Tule Lake, farther north.

Ex-Senator Smythe of Lander county is still in the S. F. mint and has been promoted to a high position in the melting room.

John T. Frisky is in the employ of some railroad, I don't know which, and has become a rich property owner. He has built several flats to be rented for enough each year to pay the original cost. That's the way most property-holders do here.

Wm. Corbett, deputy of Carson, is in the city. He finds all he wants to do at carpentering, I think.

Bill St. John, for a long time guard at the State Prison, went to Portland, Oregon, several weeks ago, since which time I have heard nothing of him.

Tom Alexander, who enlisted Gold Hill in the days when Andy Graham and Alf Doten were there, is at the head of the Order of Elks in this city. He makes a model presiding officer, and as master of ceremonies at a High Jinks has no superior.

It is really wonderful how soon a Nevada man comes out in a plug hat after he reaches tide water. Probably the glorious climate has something to do with it. You will see a sagebrusher get off the Oakland ferry dunt and travel-stained, looking as though the palace car porter had robbed him of his last cent. The next day if you meet him on Kearney street you wouldn't know it was the same man. He twirls a cane and has a Palace hotel tout ensemble which is simply stunning.

The reader need not be afraid of this French; it is perfectly safe. Anybody who wishes to know what it means may find out by turning to the back of Webster's dictionary, where I found it.

Speaking of the Palace hotel reminds me that the managers of that hostelry think it so strange that so many Nevada people should come there to register and then not stay to see what kind of fare they are going to get. As all the names help to swell the record, of course the clerks do not object.

It is scarcely fair to presume that a Nevada man buys a plug hat every time he comes to San Francisco, is it? If he doesn't do that he must either keep an extra wardrobe here or rent a hat for the occasion. For my part I don't know how they do it, but they all get there just the same.

I saw Cassidy here a few days ago. He is an exception to the rule. He was dressed like a Colorado cattle-raiser. It reminded me of the time when Duggan came through Candelaria attired in a grey, woolen shirt and overalls. He caught a good many votes by the scheme, too.

Jack Todman, who used to be connected with the Candelaria True Picture, has gone to Peru. He shipped as literary companion to the captain. I believe part of his duties will be to leave the cheering log, and wash the leeway and the course of the harbor watch. Just think how he will elate Spanish when he gets back; if, if some pretty, dark-eyed senorita doesn't capture him and keep him there.

One Black Drop.

Byron was wise when he wrote, "A drop of ink may make a million think." This is indeed true when the black fluid is used to enlighten the world on the merits of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Let consumers everywhere heed the glad tidings. Try it, all, who breathe with pain and toes in fever through the long night hours. You will find the cough gone and sleep as balmy as a child's will visit your pillow. You will thank the drop of ink that brought the message of mercy to you.

Fryer's Abietene Cough Balm.—A combination of the Gum Abietene, Yerba Santa, and Mullein, is guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds and all lung diseases. (It contains no opium.) Price 75 cents. Sold by Wm. Fryer, all genuine Abietene preparations bear the fac-simile signature of D. F. Fryer.

Don't fill the system with quinine, to prevent or cure Fever and Ague. Ayer's Ague Cure is the best. It gently purges the system, leaves no poisons to produce dizziness, deafness, headache, or other disorders.

THE MODEL SCHOOL.

A Most Valuable Adjunct to the State University.
The Regents of the University have spared no pains to make the institution all that the laws of Nevada require or the people expect. They have been so careful of expenditures that their action has sometimes appeared to be slow, but when they had studied the situation and found it advisable to proceed, they have very promptly done so.

During the past year they have had many important questions to decide, questions relating not only to the present but to the future of the University. One of these was the ways and means of establishing the Model School required by the State law enacted in 1887. After the most careful consideration of the matter the Regents at their last meeting decided to open a model school at the University, Monday, August 27th, and to place this school under the special direction of President Brown. He was directed to fit up a room for the school in the best possible manner and to employ a first-class lady teacher for the pupils. The Model School is to be permanently connected with the Normal Department of the University, and it is expected that the pupils admitted to this school will remain in it until they are prepared to enter the University classes. The same studies will be pursued in the Model School that pupils of equal attainments take in the public schools. In addition to these studies it is also proposed that vocal music and free-hand drawing shall be taught, the limited number of pupils and special facilities provided making the addition of these important branches of education practicable. The establishment of such a school as this makes an era in education in Nevada. It will not only serve as a field of observation for students in the Normal Department of our University, but it will be helpful to teachers in the State, who wish to observe the workings of a primary school that has the best equipment and that is taught according to the most approved methods.

A Gunning Accident.

Yesterday afternoon, Irvine Ross, son of Orrin Ross, a farmer residing near town, procured a shotgun and, accompanied by the two sons of a farmer named Barnett, started for the tules on a hunting expedition. In some manner, at present unknown, the gun was discharged, and the contents struck Leroy Barnett in the face, tearing away the lower part of the jaw. The other Barnett boy, who was sitting on a fence near by, received several shot in his left shoulder. Doctors Thoms and Bishop were summoned, and the former reports the wounded boy doing well, and that the chances of his complete recovery are very favorable.

Pneumonia can be quickly and permanently cured by using the powder to be found with each bottle of Fryer's True Abietene Cough Balm. (They contain no opium.) Price 75 cents. Sold by Wm. Fryer, all genuine Abietene preparations bear the fac-simile signature of D. F. Fryer.

Young, old and middle aged all experience the wonderfully beneficial effects of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young children suffering from sore eyes, sore ears, scald head, or with any scrofulous taint, become healthy and strong by the use of this medicine. Six bottles $5.

Fryer's Abietene Cough Balm.—A positive cure for Lung, Croup and Throat Troubles (without opium). Price 75 cents. Sold by Wm. Fryer, all genuine Abietene preparations bear the fac-simile signature of D. F. Fryer.

GOVERNMENT ARID LAND.

A Project for Its Reclamation—Canning Nevada's to Invest.
The Senate amendment to the Sunday Civil bill appropriating $250,000 for a survey of the arid regions of the Western States and Territories, with a view to the ultimate reclamation of desert land by irrigation through the construction of water storage reservoirs, is of vital interest to Nevada.

Major Powell, Director of the Geological Survey, estimates that the now barren regions subject to reclamation comprises an area of above a million square miles—more than one-fourth the total land area of the United States and Territories.

Of this vast arid region the Major is confident that 300,000 square miles can be made habitable and fertile by a system of economic irrigation. The report of the survey, when completed, will include an estimate of the cost of construction of reservoirs for the storage of water and for boring artesian wells for irrigation purposes.

In view of this proposed survey and the almost certainty that an appropriation will be made by Congress sufficient to inaugurate a system of irrigation proposed for the reclamation of this vast area of desert land, residents of Western Nevada, says the Virginian Chronicle, have already secured large tracts in Mason valley and other localities for agriculture, which will become fertile when the Government system of irrigation is introduced.

Among those who invested in these arid lands, since the introduction of the Senate amendment to the reclamation, is A. B. Thompson, formerly local Secretary of the Savage and Hale & Norcross mining companies, who is credited with having recently become possessed of 10,000 acres by purchase in the vicinity of Wabuska. Several superintendents of prominent mines on the lode are also reported to have recently made large purchases of land in the same locality.

The Old Galena Mines.

The Virginian Enterprise says: Two or three companies are at work in the old Galena District, in Washoe county. The mines were first discovered in 1860 and for a time there was much excitement about them. The veins are argentiferous galena, with a mixture of antimony and other metals. The first smelting furnace ever seen in Nevada was erected at Galena in the early days by Mr. Hatch, inventor of the Hatch amalgamating process—a process which was used in many of the first silver mills. Owing to the base metals in the ore and to some other troubles and lacks, the smelter was not a success. Now iron ore and other material for use as flux have been found on the spot. It seems probable that the mines will soon be successfully worked.

Mr. D. L. Whelan, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: "He positively believes he would have died had it not been for Electric Bitters."

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

No More Bald Heads.

Restores the color, gloss, and youthful freshness of the hair; stimulates rich and luxurious growth; thoroughly cleanses
the scalp; prevents dandruff and humors;
and is the most cleanly and effective preparation for the hair ever offered to the public. Rev. J. W. Davenport, Illinois Bend, Texas, writes: "Ayer's Hair Vigor, used in my family for several years, has no equal as a dressing, nor for preventing the hair from falling out or turning prematurely gray. It ranks among the first luxuries of our house." Miss Kate Rose, Ingersoll, Ontario, writes: "While keeping my head clear of dandruff, and preventing Scald Head, Ayer's Hair Vigor has also caused my hair to grow luxuriantly, resulting in my now possessing hair forty-two inches long, and as thick as could be desired." The wife of Dr. V. S.
Lovelace, Lovelaceville, Ky., had very bad tetter sores upon her head, causing the hair to fall out. Ayer's Hair Vigor healed
the sores, and in less than twelve months produced hair a foot long.

To produce a new growth of hair on bald heads, in the case of persons advanced in years, is not always possible. When the glands are decayed and gone, no stimulant can restore them;
but, when they are only inactive, from the need of some excitant, the application of Ayer's Hair Vigor will renew their vitality, and a new growth will result. L. V. Templeton, Newbern, N. C., writes: "After a protracted illness, with fever, my hair all came out, leaving me entirely bald. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, before I had used all its contents, a thick growth of hair, nearly two inches long, covered my head." L. D. McKinnin, Perryville, Md., writes: "Baldness is hereditary in my family. Five years ago the hair on the top of my head was becoming weak and thin. I procured Ayer's Hair Vigor, the application of which invigorated the hair roots, and sent out a new growth of young hair. To-day my hair is as thick and vigorous as ever. I still use the Vigor occasionally to keep my scalp in a healthy condition."

APPETIZERS.

Disadvantages of Cheap Food.

Ben Maddox, who for some time carried the mail between the towns of Whiteboro and Westboro, a considerable distance of a varied voice. He was speaking in a speaking in a very high, articulate, voice, and when about half through the sentence
falls to a very deep bass, in which he finishes.

One day in returning from Whitney his team was seized by a horse which was in the mud, and turned the light over on him in such a manner that, although uninjured, he was unable to get from under it.

While he was there a stranger came by,
when the following conversation took place:

Ben (in his fine voice): "Hello, mister, will you please get down an' raise this back up so as I can get out?"

Stranger: "Yes, I guess I can, but how did you get under there?"

Ben (in his coarse bass voice): "The horses ran away, and turned the back over on me."

Stranger: "Looks here, if there are two or three of you under there, you are able to raise that back yourself, and I am not going to get down in the mud to help you."

And away he rode, leaving Ben to get out the best way he could.

No Pic.

Jesse Wood tells a good story of a farmer whom he saw at the breakfast table one morning in the leading hotel in Newville.

When the waiter handed the menu the bill of fare, he glanced over it and remarked:

"Johnny, just bring 'em all in. I'm goin' to eat 'em, and I'll get 'em in Nashville."

The waiter grinned, and after having gone for a few minutes, returned with dishes that made a grand meal of the stranger's plate. He counted them all over, and then, with a doubtful
look, remarked:

"Look here, waiter, I don't see any pic,
and I'm mighty fond of 'em, too."

"Say, mister, we don't get no pic for breakfast at this hotel. Only have pic for dinner."

The country gentleman, with a look of disgust, turned to Mr. Wood, and said:

"Neighbor, this is a — of a hotel."

"Why?"

"Two dollars a day and no pic."

Doc, Bamford, clerk at the Hotel House, tells a similar story of a man who once stopped at the Tremont House in Chicago. (Continued Enquiries)

Just the Ordinary Fellow.

"Well, we are penniless, or mighty near it," he said, as he crumpled the paper and threw the evening paper to his wife.

"Wh—what is it?"

"The Mechanic's bank has busted, and we had $1,000 on deposit there."

"But, Richard, what's the matter after all?"

"I don't know," the president says, his hopes to pay all depositors in full."

"And didn't I say the same to my creditors when I failed in the grocery business, and did a single one of them receive five cents on the dollar?" he howled. (Wall Street News)

A Near-Sighted Man as a Cook.

Mr. Glick is near-sighted, and his wife was not feeling very well the other morning, so Mr. Glick undertook to get the breakfast ready. Then he assisted her to make her toilet. When they sat down to breakfast, Mrs. Glick said:

"John, did you make some toast?"

"No, my dear," he replied, "but just look what a nice breakfast I tried to put together for you."

"Laws of mercy!" exclaimed his wife,
as she balanced it on a fork. "You have fried my new ten-dollar bonnet!"

Glick will hire a girl hereafter when his wife is sick. (California Mavericks)

Unfounded Report.

Professor Snore, of the University of Texas, is such a learned man that he has continued spite of absent-mindedness.

"I am glad to see you. Why, there was a report all over town that you were dead," said one of the students to him a few days ago.

"You don't tell me so?"

"Yes, it was reported that you were dead and buried."

"I declare. Well, the report has not been confirmed yet, has it?" (Texas Sittings)

Nocturnal Experiences.

Off in the chilly night,
When bed-clothes snugly bound me,
I've heard the whistled felines fight
In mortal combat around me.

The spot of cats,
The hurled back-bats,
The careless word then spoken;
The eyes that shone
The back fence on
The paws of claws now broken!

A State in Demand.

"Is there a resident of the State of New Jersey in this car?" shouted an excited passenger, poking his head in the door.

"I am a resident of that State sir," replied a traveler, straightening himself
up. "What can I do for you?"

"A man in the next car has got delirium tremens. What's best to be done?"

Epistol.

Husband: "I would I were in Heaven."

Talented Wife: "That is unkind; I'm sure I make it as pleasant as I can for you."

Husband: "Ah, but you know the poor dog. To-day is landing on some saint's shore."

Unpleasant Bedfellows.

The most unpleasant bedfellows in the world is a healthy, working, business-like vacationer. It won't keep on the over-side of the bed. He won't lie still and behave himself. It is utterly useless and disagreeable and has not a single redemting quality. (Hochester Herald)

Epistol.

Ethel: "Mamma, I think Frank means business."

Mamma: "Why, what makes you think so?"

Ethel: "He gave me a pair of slippers
last night, and they were linked."

Conscience Makes Cowards of Us All.

"Have you no consciences?" exclaimed a judge to a prisoner who had been arrested for stealing his wife.

"I dunno, your worship," said the prisoner; "if I have, it has made a coward of me anyway." (National Weekly)

A New Formula.

"A very clever girl that Miss Eliza that just went out."

"Clever? Why did she never come for me?"

"That's where she's clever."
